

IMEC (Marie Cobel) with "Friends"
July 30, 1985

Session 105: How a phenomenon occurs

Summary:

By setting expectations/projections, phenomena may not occur. It usually happens spontaneous when humans do not interfere with their projections to inhibit it. If an individual reaches the mental control when there're no projections, interventions from mental body, emotional body, they can produce phenomena, because they have removed the mental body completely. The individual has to work consciously to produce the phenomena, because that's the way to develop the consciousness. The aspects of created world will defend their reality and draw the attention to them, obstructing humans to look beyond that. The key is the attention and not letting it be consumed by aspects.

Report by Raluca Meyer